Aims and scope

Nova Geodesia is a quarterly, peer-reviewed, open-access journal that publishes original research articles, critical reviews, and scientific communications in the fields of geodesy, geospatial technologies, environmental sciences, geography, and applied socio-technical disciplines. Founded by academics from Romanian universities, the journal was created to address the lack of specialized scientific platforms in geodesy and related areas across Romania, Southeast Europe, and the Balkans. Its mission is to support disciplinary development and promote international scientific exchange by offering a fully open and visible platform for both established and early-career researchers. Nova Geodesia welcomes interdisciplinary contributions in areas including geodesy, cartography, GIS, remote sensing, infrastructure projects, hydrography, earth observation, environmental planning, physical and human geography, landscape science, ecology, agriculture, forestry, land use, and socio-spatial studies. The journal is supported by an international editorial board and upholds high standards of peer review, transparency, and editorial ethics. All articles are published under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License (CC BY 4.0), in compliance with the DOAJ definition of open access. Authors retain full copyright. The source may be cited as Nova Geodesia or Nova Geod.

Open Access Policy

Nova Geodesia is an open-access journal. All content is freely available to the public without charge to users or their institutions. Readers may read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, or link to the full texts of the articles, or use them for any other lawful purpose, without asking prior permission from the publisher or the author. Articles are published under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License (CC BY 4.0, https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/), which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original work is properly cited. Authors retain copyright and full publishing rights without restriction. The journal does not charge subscription fees or apply embargo periods — all published articles are immediately and permanently available online. The journal fully adheres to the Budapest Open Access Initiative (BOAI) definition of open access and follows best practices for licensing, metadata, and archiving to ensure discoverability and re-use.

Publication Frequency

The journal appears quarterly, with the next coverage over the four annual numbers (combined months):

- Issue 1: January–March
- Issue 2: April–June
- Issue 3: July–September
- Issue 4: October–December

Each issue is published no later than the last day of the quarter. Manuscripts accepted after peer review are published in the Forthcoming (Online First) section as soon as they are finalized and technically edited. These articles can be cited using the article number (AN) and/or DOI, though the DOI will only be activated once the full issue is complete.

Publication Ethics and Publication Malpractice Policy

The journal respects the publication ethics norms, based on internationally accepted best practice guidelines for journal editors, notably the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE), the World Association of Medical Editors (WAME), the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE), Consolidated Standards of Reporting Trials (Consort).

Procedures and Editorial Policies

Nova Geodesia provides full transparency on all editorial procedures and policies, including:

- Focus and Scope
- Open Access Policy
- Publication Frequency
- Procedures: roles and responsibilities of editors, reviewers, and authors
- Submission and Author Guidelines
- Peer Review Process
- Publication Ethics
- Use of Generative AI Tools
- Transparency and Best Practice

Submission

The journal offers authors a fully web-enabled online manuscript submission and review system. Instructions for Authors are available at: https://novageodesia.ro/index.php/ng/procedures. Papers are published in English (using British spelling) and authors are fully responsible for the originality and correctness of their work, including its subject matter, language, and formal attributes. Authors are strongly urged to have their papers linguistically reviewed prior to submission. Manuscripts must be edited for clarity and conformity to the Authors Guidelines. They must not have been previously published or be under consideration for publication elsewhere. Submissions are to be made online by the corresponding author (or by the individual who takes responsibility for the integrity of the work throughout the publication process). The submission procedure is described on the journal's website. An Author Statement, available for download on the website, must be submitted by the corresponding author. This statement declares that:

- the paper is original and has not been published elsewhere;
- permission has been obtained to reproduce any copyrighted material;
- all authors are credited appropriately and have agreed to the submission;
- the work maintains integrity and acknowledges contributors;
- there are no conflicts of interest;
- and the research adheres to ethical principles of publishing and scientific conduct.

Nova Geodesia does not charge submission or article processing fees (APCs). The journal is fully funded by the Society of Land Measurements and Cadastre from Transylvania (SMTCT).

Authors can submit manuscripts directly through the online submission system (https://novageodesia.ro/index.php/ng/about/submissions). For detailed submission guidelines and procedures, please visit:
